Trends of Cosmetic Gynaecology

Market Growth

The global cosmetic gynecology market is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of approximately 9–12% from 2020 to 2025, driven by increasing acceptance and demand.

Stress Urinary Incontinence (SUI)

Research indicates that approximately 60–75% of women experience significant improvement in SUI symptoms following laser treatments.

Procedure Numbers

In India alone, the number of women undergoing aesthetic gynecology procedures is reported to be in the thousands annually, with numbers steadily increasing each year.

Vaginal Rejuvenation

Surveys indicate that over 70% of women report improvements in vaginal tightness and sexual satisfaction following non-surgical rejuvenation procedures.

Age Distribution

Women of all age groups, from teenagers to menopausal individuals, are seeking these procedures, with a significant portion being in the mid-age range and beyond (40 years and above).

Satisfaction Rates

Various studies report patient satisfaction rates ranging from 85% to 95% following laser gynecological treatments, indicating a high level of effectiveness.

Safety and Complications

Most studies report complication rates below 5%, demonstrating the safety of aesthetic treatments when performed by qualified professionals.

Respecting her desire and discomfort!
